Little change n bus route

Loren Bahr talked about the bus routes and he said there was little change in mileage from last year.

Route #1: Bus 14 (new bus) will be driven by Brian Gravatt. It went from 78 miles last year to 81 miles this year with 33 students.

Route #2: Bus 99 driven by Jim Gerdes in the morning and Butch Farmen in the afternoon. Just went up one mile from last year to 78 miles with 51 students on the route.

Route #3: Bus 10 driven by Linda McInerney in the Conde area. Same miles as last year. There are 80 miles on the trip with 33 students.

Route #4: Bus 92 driven by Randy Hjermstad. Has the has new board president Steve Smith same road miles as last year. 72 miles on the route with 36 students.

Business Manager Mike Weber (right) sign papers that will transfer signature power to Smith.

Route #5: Bus 12 driven by Lena Cox. There are 69 miles on the route with 43 students in the Columbia-Bath area.

Route #6: Bus 05 driven by Deb Tietz with 28 students. It dropped several miles from last year from 83 to 75 miles this year.

Route #7: Bus 07 driven by Don Donley with no change in miles and there are 40 students on the route.

Superintendent Joe Schwan talked about one of the meetings he attended and there is some consideration to rethink the retire/rehire policy. Teachers are retiring and then going out of state to continue teaching. It should be reconsidered to keep teachers 55-60 years of age. There are schools still looking to hire 20 certified teachers and school is only a week away. The only positions open in Groton are assistant coaches for boys basketball and wrestling.

Health care options were discussed and the state health benefit fund is struggling. Business Manager Mike Weber said limiting options is not a good thing for this area where you have two hospitals competing in Aberdeen and you have spouses working at both hospitals. Weber said that there is no representation on the committee from northern South Dakota.

Preliminary enrollment for the elementary school is up four students from last year and will be expected to change once school begins.

Several students are taking advantage of E-Learning classes and/or Board of Regents dual credit classes. Middle school and high school enrollment numbers are up and there will be two foreign exchange students attending school this year.

The board acknowledge receipt of public school exemption for two students in kindergarten, and one each in first, fourth, seventh and for a junior.

Approve open enrollment from Aberdeen for two eighth graders, and for one student in fourth, sixth and 10th grade.

Approved Craig Sternhagen as a volunteer assistant boys soccer coach for this fall, Barb Wacholz as an elementary paraprofessional at $10.25 per hour for 6.75 hours per day, and for Ryan Dix as an elementary paraprofessional for 6.75 hours per day at $12.25 per hour.

Approved a lane change for Becky Erickson from BS to BS+15 and the board approved the resignation of Desiree Gonsoir as an elementary paraprofessional.

Here's Credit 101 for Your College Freshman

By Jason Alderman

To parents with a freshman entering college this fall: You're probably expecting to shell out major bucks for tuition, room and board and a million other necessities over the next few years. But before you send your kid off, make sure you share one gift likely to steer him or her along the road to financial security – a sound understanding of how credit works.

You probably learned the hard way yourself that young adults encounter many unfamiliar expenses – and temptations – upon entering college or the workforce. So it's important to help your kids avoid early financial missteps that could damage their credit for years to come.

The first step in managing personal finances is mastering the basic checking account and debit card. A few tips you can pass along:

Look for a bank or credit union that charges no monthly usage fee, requires no minimum balance and has conveniently located ATMs so you don't rack up foreign ATM charges.

Enter all transactions in a check register or in a budgeting tool like Mint.com and review your account online at least weekly to verify when deposits, checks, purchases and automatic payments have cleared.

FOR RENT

ONE AND TWO bedroom apartment for rent. HDS subsidized. Rent includes utilities and heat. No smoking. Pets okay. Contact Kendra at 605/215-4000.

Avoid writing checks or making debit card transactions unless your current balance will cover them – such transactions often clear instantly.

A good way to build sound credit is to demonstrate responsible credit card use. But people under age 21 must have a parent or other responsible adult cosign credit card accounts unless they can prove sufficient income to repay the debt. So how can parents help their kids begin building a credit history if they can't open their own account? A couple of alternatives:

Make them an authorized user on one of your accounts. They'll get their own card and you can usually restrict the amount they're able to charge. Authorized users are not legally responsible to pay balances owed – that's your responsibility, so tread carefully.

You can add them as a joint account holder to a new or existing account – preferably, one with a small credit limit. Joint account holders are equally liable to pay off the account.

Just remember, any account activity, good or bad, goes on both your credit reports, so careful account monitoring is critical.

If your kids haven't yet demonstrated financial maturity they may not be ready for an unsecured credit card or loan. Other alternatives include:

A secured credit card, where users can charge up to the amount deposited to open the account. Purchases are charged against the account's revolving credit limit. As they pay off the balance the available credit rises, just like a regular credit card. After a period of on-time payments, ask the lender to convert it to an unsecured card, or to at least add an unsecured amount to the account.

A prepaid debit card, where you load the card with money in advance and they use the card for purchases or ATM withdrawals. You monitor account activity online or by phone.

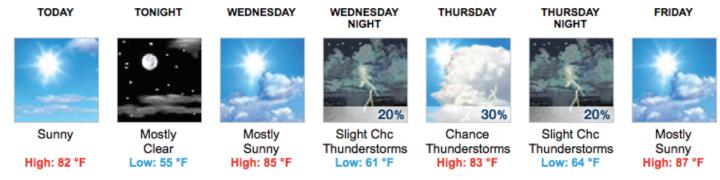

With each, fees and restrictions may apply so shop around for the best terms.

If you need help educating your kids about personal financial management, a good resource is What's My Score (www.whatsmyscore.org), a financial literacy program for young adults run by Visa Inc. It features a comprehensive workbook called Money 101: A Crash Course in Better Money Management, which can be downloaded for free.

Bottom line: Getting your kids off on the right foot, credit-wise, can make all the difference to their future financial health.

WILL POWER OR HIS POWER?

"It's no use," said Tom to his youth minister. "I'm unable to resist the temptation to sin. I've tried again and again to resist the devil and run from him when I'm tempted but it never works. Something must be wrong with my will power, so why should I try any longer?"

"Perhaps that's the problem - trying to resist temptation with 'will, power.' No doubt it's time to turn to God's power," said Jeremy.

Then he opened his Bible to Psalm 138:3 and read, "As soon as I pray, You answer me; You encourage me by giving me strength."

The Psalmist had it right: Rather than using his power, he depended on God for His power. And as we read that verse we can learn from his struggle how to be faithful to God. Obviously, there must have been a period of time in the life of the Psalmist when he tried to "make it on his own" and was unsuccessful. From his failure came his success because he was willing to turn from will-power to God-power. Notice that he wrote, "As soon as I pray..."

He learned an important "life-lesson." He could not resist the temptation to sin if he depended on himself. But "as soon as" he turned from himself to his Savior, he got exactly what he needed: "encouragement and strength" that comes only from God. So, he literally "gave up" on himself and his will power. His power did not work.

There is nothing that pleases God more than for one of His children to depend on Him for "survival." And we must never forget that "as soon as" you call, He answers!

Prayer: Help up us, Lord, to be strong enough to be weak and to call on You for encouragement and strength. In Jesus' Name, Amen.

Scripture for Today: Psalm 138:3 When I called, you answered me; you greatly emboldened me.

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — North Dakota's congressional delegation says more than $50,000 in federal funds for law enforcement is being made available to three Native American tribes, including one that straddles the North and South Dakota border.

The money will be used to assist with enforcement and crime prevention, including training, equipment, court programs, prosecution and drug treatment.

The grants include nearly $19,000 to Standing Rock, $17,000 to the Three Affiliated Tribes and nearly $15,000 to the Turtle Mountain Band of Chippewa.

The Standing Rock Reservation includes tribal members in North and South Dakota.

Hot Springs man to be sentenced for mom's killing

HOT SPRINGS, S.D. (AP) — A man convicted of killing his mother at their Hot Springs home and hiding her body will be sentenced Tuesday morning in the southern Black Hills town.

Jurors in Rapid City deliberated just a couple hours on July 15 before finding 28-year-old Matthew Tornquist guilty of first-degree murder and the theft of $10,000.

Catherine Tornquist was 56 when she disappeared in October 2011. Prosecutors say more than 50 searches on land, from the air and in the water failed to locate her body.

SD Highway Patrol, Tribe join forces in pow-wow

FORT THOMPSON, S.D. (AP) — For a second year, the Crow Creek Sioux Tribe and the South Dakota Highway Patrol will work together to enforce laws during the tribe's annual pow-wow.

Highway Patrol troopers will assist tribal police during the pow-wow this weekend. The gathering starts Friday and runs through Sunday.

Troopers will bring drug-detection dogs to the pow-wow.

Chairwoman Roxanne Sazu says the tribe welcomes the Patrol's help in ensuring that everyone has a safe experience at the celebration.

Troopers who will be involved in the event will be sworn in on Thursday after a training and orientation program.

The Patrol last year helped tribal officials enforce drug laws and protect public safety during the powwow.

Man receives 10 years on sex trafficking charge

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP) — A Belle Fourche man has been sentenced to 10 years in prison on a federal sex trafficking charge.

U.S. Attorney Brendan Johnson says 43-year-old James Larive Jr. was indicted as a result of an undercover sex trafficking operation at the 2013 Sturgis Motorcycle Rally. He was one of nine men arrested in the sting.

Authorities say Larive responded to a Craigslist advertisement posted by undercover agents that purported to offer young girls for sex.

A jury in April convicted Larvie of commercial sex trafficking.

Man charged with assault in North Dakota beating JOSH WOOD, Associated Press

WILLISTON, N.D. (AP) — Prosecutors charged a man with a Williston, North Dakota assault that left another man so severely injured that police said he may be declared brain-dead.

Kyle Siler was charged Saturday with aggravated assault in the beating of Dean Neiderklopfer in the early Friday morning hours in the oil boomtown of Williston, according to court documents. Police said Neiderklopfer is at Minot's Trinity Hospital and was expected to be declared brain-dead.

Jessica Gibson, who traveled with Siler and was believed to be his girlfriend, was charged with hindering law enforcement, according to the court documents.

A police affidavit said witnesses told officers that they saw Siler striking Neiderklopfer with a closed fist. Video footage seen by authorities showed Siler preparing to strike Neiderklopfer and returning to the video rubbing his hand. Witnesses told police Siler was "strutting and smirking" after the incident.

The video seen by police also showed Gibson recording the incident on her cellphone, according to the affidavit.

Siler and Gibson fled North Dakota after the incident and were apprehended near Belle Fourche, South Dakota late Friday night, according to Butte County Sheriff Fred Lamphere.

Police had tracked their cellphones going south out of North Dakota toward Belle Fourche.

Lamphere said authorities in western South Dakota were told to be on the lookout for the pair for "suspected involvement in aggravated assault and possibly a murder." He added a highway patrolman stopped the vehicle as it was traveling south.

Lamphere said the two are approximately 30 years old. He added that they are being held at the Meade County Jail in Sturgis and are awaiting extradition to North Dakota.

According to the Williston police affidavit, the incident occurred on South Main Street, which is home to the town's Amtrak station and its two strip clubs. In March 2013, a man was shot and killed in front of the side-by-side strip clubs.

Williston police did not respond to requests for information about the incident beyond what was outlined in the affidavit.

Spring wheat harvest lags behind 5-year average

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP) — The spring wheat harvest in South Dakota continued to lag far behind the five-year average as below-normal temperatures persisted throughout the state.

6 men arrested for soliciting child sex at Sturgis

STURGIS, S.D. (AP) — South Dakota's attorney general says publicity and undercover stings helped cut the number of people who solicited sex from children during the Sturgis Motorcycle Rally.

Marty Jackley says six men were arrested during this year's annual event, which ended Sunday. That's down from nine arrests last year.

He says five of the six are from another state or Canada and five are likely to be charged in federal or state court. He says there are some mitigating circumstances in the sixth case.

Jackley says the undercover sex trafficking operations by state and federal authorities are having a positive impact and showing results, but it's still a problem that needs to be addressed.

Bismarck-Mandan getting $12M wellness center

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — Sanford Health and the Missouri Valley Family YMCA are collaborating on a $12.3 million family wellness center for Bismarck-Mandan.

At least $2 million of the amount is to come from a public fundraising campaign.

Construction is to begin next spring on the 41,000-square-foot facility south of Raging Rivers Water Park.

The facility will have child care, fitness studios, a gym, a center with workout equipment and a walking track.

Dakotas-based Sanford Health and the YMCA already have family wellness partnerships in Fargo and Sioux Falls.

Wastewater spills into river in Sioux Falls

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP) — Officials say initial lab tests indicate that a wastewater spill into the Big Sioux River won't affect people or wildlife.

Sioux Falls Public Works officials say they're continuing to monitor the river and expect more test results later in the week.

The city in a statement says about 9,000 gallons of "treated biosolids" made it into the river Sunday before the spill at the water treatment plant was contained with an earthen berm. Wastewater Super-intendent Mark Perry says biosolids are solid organic materials from treated sewage.

He says treated biosolids have a high ammonia content but river water tests have come back normal. The contractor responsible for the spill — Veit, of Rogers, Minnesota— is working to clean up the spill area. That's expected to take through Wednesday.

Iraq incumbent PM al-Maliki grows more isolated, fights to stay on amid power struggle

BAGHDAD (AP) — Iraq's incumbent Prime Minister Nouri al-Maliki appeared more isolated Tuesday as he pressed his battle to remain in power while Iraqi politicians and the international community rallied behind a Shiite premier-designate who could be a more unifying figure, badly needed if the nation is to confront a spreading Sunni insurgency.

U.S. Secretary of State John Kerry on Tuesday urged the prime minister-designate, Haider al-Ibadi, to work quickly to form an inclusive government and said the U.S. is prepared to offer it significant additional aid in the fight against Islamic State militants.

The power struggle in Baghdad comes as Iraq is battling militants from the al-Qaida breakaway group in the north and the west. The onslaught by the Islamic State, which has captured large chunks of Iraqi territory since June, has become the country's worst crisis since the U.S. troop withdrawal in 2011.

On Monday, al-Ibadi, the deputy speaker of parliament from al-Maliki's Shiite Dawa party, was selected by President Fouad Massoum to be the new prime minister and was given 30 days to present a new government to lawmakers for approval.

President Barack Obama called al-Ibadi's nomination a "promising step forward" and urged "all Iraqi political leaders to work peacefully through the political process."

Police, protesters again clash outside St. Louis after black teen's fatal shooting by officer

FERGUSON, Mo. (AP) — Police in riot gear fired tear gas into a crowd of protesters in a St. Louis suburb where an unarmed black teenager had been fatally shot by police over the weekend, as tension rose even amid calls for collective calm.

Between two nights of unrest, a community forum hosted by the local NAACP chapter Monday night drew hundreds to a sweltering church in Ferguson, the St. Louis County suburb of 21,000 that's nearly 70 percent black and the place where 18-year-old Michael Brown was shot multiple times after being confronted by an officer.

Ferguson Police Chief Tom Jackson said a large crowd that gathered throughout the day Monday at the site of a burned-out convenience store turned rowdy at nightfall, throwing rocks at police. Officers used tear gas and shot "beanbag rounds" meant to stun them, he said.

St. Louis County police spokesman Brian Schellman said there were at least five arrests and no reports of looting. Nearly three dozen people had been arrested following a candlelight vigil Sunday night when crowds burned stores, vandalized vehicles, assaulted reporters and taunted officers.

"People are tired. They have reached the end of their rope," said Ruth Latchison Nichols after the NAACP forum, where many more were left waiting outside once the pews reached capacity. "Enough is enough. This is a state of emergency."

Robin Williams, Oscar-winning comedy star of stage and screen, dies in apparent suicide at 63

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — He was the funniest guy in the room, something that made it all the harder for friends and fans to accept that beneath that reservoir of frenetic energy and seemingly endless good humor resided demons so dark they could push Robin Williams to suicide.

It was no secret that the Oscar-winning actor had suffered for years from periodic bouts of substance abuse and depression — he made reference to it himself in his comedy routines. But word that he had killed himself Monday at his San Francisco Bay Area home left both friends in the Hollywood community and neighbors in the quiet neighborhood of Tiburon that he called home equally stunned and grief-stricken.

"It was so sudden and he was such a great guy and it's such a loss to the whole community," said Daniel Jennings who lived across the street from Williams in the quiet neighborhood where the actor was often seen riding his bike and stopping to talk to neighbors. One thing he never did, residents said, was act like a celebrity.

"He was really nice to all the neighbors," Daniels said. "Really appreciated his kindness."

He was last seen alive at home about 10 p.m. Sunday, according to the Marin County coroner's office. Shortly before noon, the Sheriff's Department received an emergency call from the home, where the star of "Good Will Hunting," 'Mrs. Doubtfire," 'Good Morning, Vietnam" and dozens of other films was pronounced dead.

Asbestos going strong in developing world, where industry glosses over scientific consensus

VAISHALI, India (AP) — The executives mingled over tea and sugar cookies, and the chatter was upbeat. Their industry, they said at a conference in the Indian capital, saves lives and brings roofs, walls and pipes to some of the world's poorest people.

Their product? Asbestos. Outlawed in much of the developed world, it is still going strong in the developing one. In India alone, the world's biggest asbestos importer, it's a $2 billion industry providing 300,000 jobs.

The International Labor Organization, World Health Organization, medical researchers and more than 50 countries say the mineral should be banned; asbestos fibers lodge in the lungs and cause disease. The ILO estimates 100,000 people die from workplace exposure every year.

But the industry executives at the asbestos conference, held in a luxury New Delhi hotel, said the risks are overblown.

Instead, they described their business as a form of social welfare for hundreds of thousands of impoverished Indians still living in flimsy, mud-and-thatch huts.

Egypt-hosted Gaza talks to continue as Israel-Hamas cease-fire holds for second day

CAIRO (AP) — A temporary Israel-Hamas truce was hold holding for a second day Tuesday as marathon, indirect negotiations on a lasting cease-fire and a long-term solution for the battered Gaza Strip were set to resume in Cairo.

A similar, three-day truce collapsed on Friday when militants resumed rocket fire on Israel after the sides were unable to make any headway in the Egypt-hosted talks. Hamas is seeking an end to an Israeli-Egyptian border blockade of the Gaza Strip while Israel wants Hamas to disarm.

The Israeli military said no incidents between the two sides were registered overnight — neither Hamas rocket fire at Israel nor Israeli strikes in Gaza. The monthlong Gaza war has killed more than 1,900 Palestinians, the majority of them civilians, Palestinian and U.N. officials say. In Israel, 67 people have been killed, all but three of them soldiers, officials there say.

The Israeli delegation returned to the Egyptian capital on Tuesday after a trip back to Israel.

A senior Israeli official suggested that the first day of talks had not gone well.

Russian trucks with humanitarian aid leave for war-torn regions of eastern Ukraine

MOSCOW (AP) — A convoy of 280 Russian trucks headed for eastern Ukraine early Tuesday, one day after agreement was reached on an international humanitarian relief mission.

But the international Red Cross, which is due to coordinate the operation, said it had no information on what the trucks were carrying or where they were going. That could raise fears in Ukraine and the West, where leaders have voiced concerns that Russia could use the initiative as a pretext for sending troops into rebel-held territory.

Russian television and news agencies reported Tuesday that 2,000 tons of aid was en route to Ukraine, where fighting between pro-Russian separatists and government forces has claimed more than 1,300 lives since April, according to a U.N. report.

NTV television showed hundreds of white trucks gathered at a depot outside Moscow, and said they were carrying everything from baby food to sleeping bags. A Russian Orthodox priest sprinkled holy water on the trucks, some of which bore a red cross, before their departure.

Andre Loersch, a spokesman for the International Committee of the Red Cross mission in Ukraine, said that while the organization had reached a general agreement about delivery of humanitarian aid to the region, he had "no information about the content" of the trucks and did not know where they were headed.

Human Rights Watch says dispersal of last year's Egypt sitins could be crime against humanity

CAIRO (AP) — The New-York based Human Rights Watch called Tuesday for an international commission of inquiry into mass killings in Egypt last summer that left hundreds dead, saying they likely amount to crimes against humanity.

Based on a year-long investigation into the incidents that followed the ouster of Islamist President Mohammed Morsi on July 3, 2013, Human Rights Watch called specifically for an inquiry in to the role of country's current President Abdel-Fattah el-Sissi, and at least 10 senior military and security chiefs in the killing of 1,150 protesters in the span of six weeks.

The group said it found that authorities had used excessive and deliberate force against protesters on political grounds in successive attacks on their gatherings.

The worst incident of mass killings occurred on Aug. 14, when authorities opened fire on a massive pro-Morsi sit-in at Cairo's Rabaah al-Adawiyah square, leaving at least 817 dead after 12 hours, Human Rights Watch said. The group called it the "world's largest killings of demonstrators in a single day in recent history."

Two executives from Human Rights Watch, arriving from New York on Sunday, were barred from entering Egypt and were turned back ahead of a planned launch of the report in Cairo. Officials said they were barred from entering after the government asked them to postpone their visit. The executives refused and insisted on coming, the Interior Ministry said Tuesday.

Madrid hospital says Spanish priest with Ebola has died; one of few thought to get Ebola drug

MADRID (AP) — A Spanish missionary priest being treated for Ebola died Tuesday in a Madrid hospital amid a worldwide ethical debate over who should get an experimental Ebola drug.

Spain's Health Ministry said Monday it had obtained a course of the U.S.-made experimental Ebola drug ZMapp to treat Father Miguel Pajares, 75.

Pajares died Tuesday at Carlos III Hospital, the hospital and his order said. The hospital would not confirm that he had been treated with the drug, but his order said earlier that he would be.

He is one of only three Ebola patients thought to have received the experimental treatment. The others are two Americans evacuated to Atlanta. The vast majority of those sickened by the virus have been Africans.

The World Health Organization says 1,013 people have died so far in the Ebola outbreak in West Africa and authorities have recorded 1,848 suspected, probable or confirmed cases of the killer virus. The virus was detected in Guinea in March and has since spread to Sierra Leone, Liberia and possibly Nigeria.

Clinton tries to distinguish her foreign policy vision from Obama ahead of a possible 2016 bid

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (AP) — After working to carry out President Barack Obama's foreign policy mission for four years as secretary of state, Hillary Rodham Clinton is presenting a contrasting vision for America's role in the world ahead of a possible 2016 White House bid.

Clinton drew the sharpest distinctions yet from her former boss in a rebuke of his cautious approach to global crises. "Great nations need organizing principles, and 'don't do stupid stuff' is not an organizing principle," Clinton said in a weekend magazine interview, referring to a version of the phrase Obama and his advisers have used privately to describe his approach to foreign policy.

Asked for her organizing principle, she replied: "Peace, progress and prosperity. This worked for a very long time."

Clinton wrapped her critiques in expressions of respect for the president and sympathy for the tough global decisions he grapples with from the Oval Office. On Monday, a vacation day for Obama, he dealt with issues involving Iraq, Ukraine, Gaza, Syria, as well as terrorism and Ebola in Africa.

"He's thoughtful, he's incredibly smart, and able to analyze a lot of different factors that are all moving at the same time," she said. "I think he is cautious because he knows what he inherited, both the two wars and the economic front, and he has expended a lot of capital and energy trying to pull us out of the hole we're in."
