"As South Dakota's lone Member of the U.S. House of Representatives, I believe it is critical that my staff and I meet with South Dakotans one-on-one to hear about the issues important to them," said Rep. Noem. "It is my hope that those needing help with a federal agency or simply wishing to pass on their concerns to me will connect with my staff on July 7."

While in Groton, German will also be holding meetings with community leaders and local businesses. To get immediate assistance, please contact Rep. Noem's Watertown office at 878-2868 or visit her website at www.noem.house.gov.

Second instrumental music teacher is looking bleak for this year

A second music teacher is looking more bleak. "There is no viable candidate for the second music teacher," said Superintendent Joe Schwan. "It looks like we will have one instrumental instructor this year. It's not ideal, but it's not the end of the world. Cody Swanson will have to take back fifth and sixth grade music." Board member Marty Weismantel said, "We hope this is only a one year deal."

Brett Schwan was hired as the elementary principal/OST Director for the 2015-16 school year. Also hired was Joni Groeblichhoff as a special education paraprofessional for the elementary school and Jacky Fortin as the high school special education paraprofessional. Superintendent Joe Schwan said he would like one more paraprofessional at the elementary school and one more at the middle school.

The changes to the student handbook were approved.

Schwan reported on summer maintenance work. They include the lighting for the stage has been ordered and will be installed in a few weeks. Locke Electric has begun replacing the lights in the Arena. The carpet replacement project is completed as is the east parking lot.

The fall athletic meeting is set for Monday, Aug. 10, 7 p.m., with the same format as last year. The bus drivers are scheduled to travel to Warner on Tuesday, Aug. 11, for the required training that needs to be done every five years.

Business Manager Mike Weber reported that there are six accounts that are short by $4,171. Most of that is from the additional health insurance premium and there were two long football trips to western South Dakota for the playoffs. There were also shortages in the capital outlay account in the amount of $1,091, in the special education fund by $8,413 and Bond Redemption by $559.

The board accepted the low of diesel and gas from MJ's Sinclair.

The Groton Independent was designated as the official newspaper.

Several certified staff educational lane changes were approved. Jodi Sternhagen moved from MS15 to MS30, Becky Erickson from BS30 to MS, Kristen Gonsoir from BS30 to MS30, Kristi Anderson from BS30 to BS45, Lindsey Tietz from BS to BS15, Cara Dennert from BS30 to BS45, Deb Winburn from BS30 to BS45 and Jane Kroll from BS30 to BS45.

An open enrollment for a first and second grader from Langford Area was approved.

July 2015 Climate Update Forecasts a Cool, Wet July

BROOKINGS, S.D. - As El Nino increases in strength this summer, its impacts on our summer conditions in North America are becoming evident, said Laura Edwards, SDSU Extension Climate Field Specialist, referencing the latest climate outlook from National Oceanic Atmospheric Administration's (NOAA) Climate Prediction Center.

"The July outlook indicates increased likelihood of cooler and wetter conditions throughout South Dakota this July," Edwards said. "These temperature and precipitation projections strongly reflect a summertime El Nino pattern over North America."

The outlook indicates that throughout the central states - including South Dakota - cooler than median temperatures are favored in the month ahead. "In addition to El Nino, this temperature outlook is also a response to the very wet soils and ample rainfall that has fallen in this region over the last several weeks, which tends to reduce the high temperatures in the summer season," Edwards said.

In South Dakota, the median temperatures for July range from the low 80s in the northeast, to upper 80s across most of the south and west for highs. Median lows are in the upper 50s in the northwest to lower 60s in the southeast.

Most of the Rocky Mountain region and the central states are favored to be above median for precipitation in July. "There is strong consensus in the forecast models for this precipitation signal, according to the Climate Prediction Center," said Dennis Todey, SDSU Extension Climate Specialist and South Dakota State Climatologist.

90 percent likely to continue

Todey added that a recent update on the El Nino conditions, from NOAA Climate Prediction Center, stated that El Nino is 90 percent likely to continue through the fall season, and 85 percent likely to continue or intensify into the winter. "This may sound like a bold prediction, however many climate models have been accurately forecasting the temperature and precipitation over the last couple of months," Todey said. "There is some confidence that the long-range climate models may have now captured how the sea surface temperatures in the Pacific Ocean will impact our climate for the rest of the year."

For much of South Dakota, El Nino in the summer season generally tends to be wetter and cooler, particularly in July and August. The Climate Prediction Center outlook is consistent with that climatology.

Looking ahead to the next three months (July-September), South Dakota looks to be wetter than average. In the same period, Todey explained that the area most likely to experience cooler temperatures is concentrated to the Central Plains and the heart of the Mississippi River Valley region. "As a result, South Dakota is currently projected to have equal chances of below, above or near median temperature in the next 90 days," he said.

What El Nino means to South Dakota crops

For croplands, pastures, yards and gardens, the El Nino summer season ahead may mean less heat stress than average, Edwards explained. "There is ample moisture currently in most of the soils and a continuation of the rainfall pattern like the one we have seen over the last few weeks will reduce drought or water stress as well," she said. Combined with the likely cooler conditions crop water use should be reduced.

Disease issues, like stripe rust, have already become apparent in many wheat fields, and given the higher humidity and moisture in the atmosphere, Edwards said scouting fields will be increasingly important. "Growers may also be more concerned about weeds, as the recent wet conditions have made some field work difficult for pesticide application," she said. "A few warm, dry days are all a weed needs to grow quickly, and frequent scouting is suggested."

With this much moisture high stress conditions for livestock could appear periodically because of higher dew point, even with less extreme high air temperatures.

Drought eliminated in South Dakota

The short window of drought our state experienced in the early months of 2015 has been all but eliminated given our recent wet and cool pattern over the last six weeks. "This week's U.S. Drought Monitor shows virtually no change from last week in our area, with the southeast part of the state continuing to be slightly drier than average for the year so far," Todey said.

The drought outlook through September indicates continued improvement or removal of the remaining drought affected areas in South Dakota, given the likelihood of wetter and cooler conditions for the remainder of the growing season.

Friends . . . Near and Far

Editor's Note: This is the 25th in a series featuring your friends, near and far.

Rebecca Schultze

JobWise what are you doing today? I am the Communications and Public Relations Manager for the College of Business Administration at the University of Northern Iowa. Most of my time is spent writing, editing and managing print publications, social media, video production, website development and special events.

How long have you been working at the current job? Coming up on 5 years.

How did you get your current job? I worked in UNI's Office of University Relations when the position opened and was asked to serve in the role on an interim basis. I went through the formal application process and was then hired for the permanent position.

If you have previous employments list them and how long you were there.

Public relations specialist for UNI Office of University Relations - 5 years

Communications director for Iowa City Area Chamber of Commerce - 1 year

Reporter for Iowa City Area Press-Citizen - 1 year

What high school did you attend and what year did you graduate? Groton High School 1997

Where did you attend college and what was your degree? South Dakota State University, graduating with bachelor's degrees in biology and journalism

What advice would you give the high school students today? Don't let your education start and end in the classroom. Experience is the best way to learn, so take chances, talk to strangers, hang out with different generations and people with different backgrounds from yours, try something that would surprise your friends to learn that you did, and get outside your comfort zone on a regular basis.

List your major accomplishments that you have had so far in life. I've had some cool things happen in my life and some amazing experiences, but none of them would have been possible without learning to silence the critics in my head. So I'd have to say that learning to risk failure and accepting that I don't have anyone's expectations to live up to except my own have been my biggest accomplishments.

Do you feel that your high school and college education prepared you adequately for post education life? I feel quite fortunate to have received a solid education at Groton High School and at SDSU. But I'll refer back to my advice to high school students above: no matter how good your teachers and school are, don't rely on the classroom and books for all of your education!

Remembering a Great American Cowboy

A map of cattle trails and a life-size statue of James A. "Tennessee" Vaughn astride a horse dominate the Founders Room at the High Plains Western Heritage Center in Spearfish.

Cattlemen like Vaughn were significant in developing the open range and cattle operations in South Dakota and Wyoming.

The High Plains Western Heritage Center will celebrate the Great Western Cattle Trail Event and the National Day of the American Cowboy on July 3 -5 with a Western art show, saddle displays and American cowboy displays. The Western Heritage Center is participating in the Great Western Cattle Trail Project, part of a nine-state effort by the Great Western Cattle Trail Association to identify the general route of that trail. The Great Western Cattle Trail ran from Texas to Dakota, Montana and Wyoming territories. Concrete markers on the High Plains Western Heritage Center's grounds identify the trail's route and an extensive floor display at the museum tells the trail's story. Call the Western Heritage Center at (605) 642-9378 for more information about the Great Western Cattle Trail Event and the National Day of the American Cowboy.

In the years after the Civil War, from the 1870s to the early 1890s, Texas cattle outfits drove their herds north to summer pasture to finish them for eastern markets. According to historian and author Paul Higbee of Spearfish, the land in Texas was overgrazed and the High Plains area offered outstanding grass.

Economics were also a factor, he said. The cattle were used to satisfy federal contracts on the reservations.

As a trail boss, Vaughn was credited with bringing more longhorns up the trail than any other trail boss. One of Vaughn's responsibilities would be to advance the herd to determine grass and water sources and report back to the drovers to set up night camp. A trail boss was responsible for the safety of the cattle and had to be skilled in working with both cowboys and the owners of the cattle outfits.

The usual trail drive formation was made up of 11 positions of riders. Some cowboys were in charge of the herd of horses from which cowboys selected their mounts. There was also a cook.

It took an average of 90 days to travel from Texas to the forks of the Grand River in South Dakota's Perkins County.

While most cattle herds on the trail numbered 2,500, Vaughn sometimes trailed twice as many. Vaughn was born on July 22, 1851, in Lebanon, Tenn. He went to Texas in 1866, at age 15, and was hired as a cowboy by the Ellison Brothers outfit at Lockhart, Texas.

Vaughn made the first of his nine trail drives in about 1873, driving cattle for the Driskill Cattle Company from Texas to Wyoming. He would be with the Driskill outfit for 18 years before working for A.J. "Tony" Day, general manager of the Turkey Track. Both the Driskill and the Turkey Track were large cattle outfits that had operations in western South Dakota. Vaughn later drove horses to Canada.

Vaughn married Ella Bacon Dorsett in Idaho on Christmas Day, 1887. The newlyweds moved to the Spearfish area, living with Ella's adoptive parents, David and Amanda Dorsett. In 1904, the Vaughns moved into a house in Spearfish. They raised seven children.

His obituary stated that "Mr. Vaughn had the reputation of being able to take a herd of cattle over the long trail and have them arrive in better condition than any other trailboss on the range."

An Old Timers' Annual Picnic was started in 1925 as a way for cowboys to get together. Ed Lemmon wrote that Vaughn attended the Old Timers' Picnic at Bixby, near the present-day town of Bison, in 1932 and called him an "outstanding figure." Lemmon was an early-day cattleman after whom the town of Lemmon is named.

Vaughn was active in the Oddfellow Lodge, the Spearfish Social Club and the Congregational Church in Spearfish. He died at his home in Spearfish on Jan. 8, 1934.

"The present generation can scarcely conceive the life that these heroes of the plains lived and loved," wrote Vaughn's son, Ernest, in a 1976 article that appeared in Black Hills area newspapers. "Though ever flirting with danger, they blazed the trail, they opened the way and led the men ever on toward better things."

Fees for some driver license applications to increase July 1

PIERRE, S.D. -- South Dakotans will see an increase in driver license application fees starting July 1.

House Bill 1041, approved by this year's Legislature, increases fees for certain categories. They are:

- *** An original or renewal driver license or ID will go from $20 to $28;
- *** A duplicate license or ID $10 to $15;
- *** The cost of a commercial driver license $25 to $33; and,
- *** Commercial driver license endorsement knowledge test fees $10 to $15.

Jane Schrank, director of the Driver Licensing Program, says the extra revenue raised will help fund the program itself.

"Our goal is to always wisely use the money raised from the fees," she says. "The average current cost to operate the program equates to $29.75 per driver license or identification card issued. It is predicted that the new increase will keep the program solvent until Fiscal Year 2024."

Drivers are reminded that they can renew their licenses starting 180 days prior to expiration.

The Driver Licensing Program is part of the South Dakota Department of Public Safety.
