Groton Ford and S&S Lumber donate bikes for perfect attendance

Groton Ford and S & S Lumber are going to reward Groton Area Elementary kids K-5 for going to school. "We are really excited about this new partnership." Nick Simon of Groton Ford said. "When we found out there really wasn't anything currently in place to reward the kids that make that extra effort to show up for school on time, religiously every day we saw an opportunity. Encouraging our youth at an early age to be responsible for their actions will benefit them the rest of their lives. Last year in K-5 there were seven students with perfect attendance and 18 that missed four periods or less. We have decided to reward every boy and girl that only misses four periods or less with a brand new bicycle! We didn't want to penalize kids for having to miss a period or two for things that just can't be avoided such as travel, dentist, illness etc."

Nelson recognized as HuntSAFE volunteer

Gordon Nelson, Groton, was recently recognized by the South Dakota Game, Fish and Parks Department for his commitment, support, and leadership in educating youth on the development and awareness of safe and honorable hunting practices.

Nelson has served for twenty-eight years as a volunteer HuntSAFE instructor, passing onto younger generations his passion for hunting, safety, and other outdoor activities.

Over 300 volunteers each year help to carry out this program that teaches firearms safety, conservation, and responsibility to thousands of students across the state. Finding good qualified instructors is not always easy, but South Dakota is blessed with many great Hunt Safe instructors.

"Without the dedication of hundreds of HuntSAFE volunteers across the state, the hunting heritage of South Dakota would be in jeopardy," said Jason Kool, GFP HuntSAFE coordinator.

"Summer Road Trip" at the Granary Celebrates All American Fun

The new exhibit, which will run August through September, is called "Summer Road Trip". It is located at the Granary Gallery, 5 miles north of US Highway 12 between Aberdeen and Groton. (map and directions on-line or call 626-7117.)

"Summer Road Trip" takes a light hearted look at an American summer tradition of loading the family in the car and adventuring to a warmer destination. Artifacts from the Dacotah Prairie Museum will blend with some vintage memorabilia to compose several destinations for summer fun including a beach scene; gathering garden abundance; mountain climbing; and cheering for the local baseball team – the "boys of summer"!

Included as a highlight to this exhibit will be the photographic work of John Eichinger. Complementing the summer fun memorabilia will be photographs taken in what he refers to as a "California Photographic Surfing Trip". The area John focused on for his picture taking was the miles of beach front between San Diego and San Francisco. Eichinger, who spends time each winter in California, started taking pictures at the age of 14 with a Kodak Brownie camera, a gift from his mother. From there he invested in his hobby further by buying his first Pentax 35mm camera in 1970 during his stint in the Army. One of his main focusses was and is capturing shots of vintage cars.

After a year of college art, Eichinger pursued mechanics and auto body work, leading to his career in restoring classic cars. The action surfing photos in this exhibit were captured with a Canon digital camera in California.

In addition to the photo-art which will be for sale, there will be beach and shade hats and classic bathing suits from the Museum collection, reminiscent of a summer day under the sun at a favorite beach. An Aberdeen Pheasant's uniform will bring to life an exciting day of cheering on the Home Team at the baseball diamond. Binoculars, a compass and hiking boots will focus and hiking and rock climbing in our State's favorite get-away, the Black Hills of South Dakota. A wicker picnic basket and child's metal garden tools from the Museum collection will evoke memories of summer bounty in the sights and smell of fresh garden produce.

Come join us for the heat of the season and the excitement of a summer road trip at the Granary Rural Cultural Center!

Hours: Saturday-Sunday, 1-4pm. Always free and welcoming the public.

Keeping School-Age Students Healthy on Hot Days

BROOKINGS, S.D. - Temperatures during the first few weeks of school may be high, yet, some schools don't have air conditioning.

Keeping cool when temperatures are high isn't just about comfort. The absence of a cooling system can create sweltering temperatures inside the classroom that can lead to the development of a heat-related illness, explained Suzanne Stluka, SDSU Extension Food & Families Program Director.

"Heat-related illness occurs when the human body is unable to stabilize the internal body temperature due to high humidity, increased weather temperatures, vigorous physical activity and other conditions," Stluka said.

Before sending children to school on hot days, Stluka encourages parents to take an active role in preventing heat-related illness. "Preventative steps taken by parents may protect their child from the development of a heat-related illness. It is critical to be aware of the signs and to stay hydrated," she said.

Preventing Heat-Related Illness

Prevention is the key to avoiding heat-related illnesses.

"Parents can help their child during the school day through preparation and teaching their child to recognize the symptoms and what to do," Stluka said.

Tips for Parents:

Send children to school with a water bottle. A great tip is to freeze it overnight so it stays cold throughout the day;

Stay Hydrated! Encourage child to drink their water even when they are not thirsty;

Send a hat with your child to wear when outdoors (Be sure to check school policy regarding hats);

Make sure the child wears light-colored, loose-fitting clothing; Encourage children to play in shaded areas and to rest often; and Teach children to go indoors whenever they fell overheated.

Trinity's Stained Glass Windows being done

The stained glass windows from the historic Trinity Church in Groton are now in the Willet Hauser Architectural Glass Studio in Winona, Minnesota, undergoing restoration with the assistance of a Deadwood Fund Grant awarded to the newly-formed Groton Community Historical Society by the South Dakota Historical Society.

The stained glass repair studio first took rubbings of the windows, as shown in the photo. They then removed the lead came holding the pieces together in a water bath. They are now cleaning and reassembling the pieces, and replacing broken ones. The windows will be reinstalled in the historic church when restoration is complete.
