Weekly Vikings Roundup

By Jordan Wright

The Minnesota Vikings have started training camp, and the team's first preseason game is less than two weeks away. Today, we wrap up the roster breakdown by covering special teams. Before we get to that, however, let's go through some news and notes that have come out of training camp so far.

Both Stefon Diggs and Anthony Barr have reported to camp and are participating in practices even though they haven't received contract extensions yet. There was some worry that the players could hold out to demand new contracts, but luckily we won't have to worry about it.

So far, the only players to miss practice time are second-year center Pat Elflein (ankle and shoulder surgeries in the offseason) and wide receiver Stacy Coley (groin strain sustained in practice). All other players are good to go, including running back Dalvin Cook. Cook is 10-months removed from a knee injury that ended his season, but he looks as sharp as ever and is running without a knee brace.

With the sudden passing of offensive line coach Tony Sparano, the Vikings decided to promote two assistant coaches – Clancy Barone and Andrew Janocko – to co-offensive line coaches. The team discussed bringing in an outside coach to fill the role, including former Vikings head coach Mike Tice, but the team decided to keep it in-house because of the short amount of time before the season starts.

Ok, back to the roster breakdown.

Kicker

Daniel Carlson was drafted by the Vikings in the fifth-round of the draft. Carlson has excellent range and accuracy, and he didn't miss an extra point in college. He has the inside track to the kicking position since the team spent draft capital on him, but he has some competition in incumbent kicker Kai Forbath.

Forbath was ninth in the NFL with 32 made field goals last season, but he was 16th in field goal percentage (84%, 32 of 38). Forbath was decent kicking field goals, but he was one of the worst in the league when it came to kicking extra points. He missed five extra points last season, and his 87% conversion rate was worst in the NFL.

Punter

Ryan Quigley is the only punter on the Vikings roster, so unless the team brings in competition, he will once again handle punting duties for the team. I am surprised the team didn't elect to bring any competition at the position, because Quigley ranked 29th in the NFL, averaging only 39.2 net yards per punt. However, he did pin opposing teams inside their own 20-yard line on 29 of 71 punts and didn't have a single punt go into the endzone for a touchback.

Returner

The Vikings have said the plan to start training camp is to have Marcus Sherels once again return punts, and rookie first-round pick Mike Hughes will have the inside track to be the team's primary kick returner. Sherels was eighth in the NFL last season, averaging 9.5 yards per punt return (among players with at least 10 attempts).

Long snapper

Kevin McDermott will again be the Vikings' long snapper. Entering his fourth season with the Vikings, McDermott has only missed one regular-season game with the team.

Don't miss next week's article, where we will have a training camp update as well as a preview for the Vikings' first preseason game against the Denver Broncos. Skol!

“Curious George: The Golden Meatball” to be performed at the Granary

The Granary Rural Cultural Center is hosting Aberdeen's Storybook Land Theatre on Friday, August 3 at 1pm. The group will perform their new musical, “Curious George: The Golden Meatball,” based on the popular children's series by Margaret and H.A. Rey. Everyone's favorite curious little monkey is back once again with a brand new adventure, as he climbs and swings his way to saving the annual All-You-Can-Eat Meatball Day. Audiences all over north-eastern South Dakota are invited to free performances of this “a-peeling” musical, suitable for audiences of all ages.

For driving directions to the Granary go to www.granaryfinearts.org. This show is free and open to the public.

Curious George first appeared in the 1939 book “Cecily G. and the Nine Monkeys” and has since gone on to appear in countless books, live-action productions, movies and even children's toys.

Broadway World calls this production “a great opportunity for kids to enjoy theater” and “an incredibly cute story with the children watching blown away and having an absolute blast”.

The cast of “Curious George: The Golden Meatball” is made up entirely of the Storybook Land Theater summer cast: Haven Brunes, Z-Co Farms, Darin Zuehke Inc of Britton SD is a family owned and operated cow/calf, cattle feeding, and farming operation. Partners include: Karen, Darin, Kurt, Brian, and Kent Zuehke. Feeding cattle since 1977. They enjoy feeding cattle in this region of South Dakota as is known for its high quality cattle and the farming is excellent for growing their own corn and other essential feedstuffs.

 While Kurt Zuehke handles a lot of the cropping and bookkeeping part of the operation, his two brothers, Darin and Brian, and his uncle, Kent, spend more of their time running a feedlot operation with a capacity of about 2,000 head. The family also has a stock cow operation that includes mostly black cattle with a strong Angus background. While the family separates the main duties, they all pitch in where needed. The family farming operation was started by the late Gary Zuehke and his brother Kent in the mid 1970's. In 2003, they started a partnership called Z-Co Farms. They expanded and added the custom feedlot, gaining their permit in 2006.

Curious George

Julia Friedrichsen, Tylan Glover, Rachel Morrison, Brian T. Schultz, Isaac Seaton, Briggs Tople and Claire Vetter.

Storybook Land Theatre, a program of Aberdeen Parks, Recreation and Forestry, is in its 30th season of free, family-friendly performances. Partnering with Aberdeen Community Theatre's Young People's Theatre, under the direction of ACT Associate Artistic/Managing Director Brian T. Schultz, SBLT performs eight different shows in eight weeks in the Storybook Land Castle in Aberdeen's Wylie Park. Performances are typically held Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays, June through August.

This is the second year SBLT has added a touring element to its programming. Through funding from 3Mgives, SBLT is able to bring "Curious George: The Golden Meatball," to rural communities surrounding Aberdeen at no cost.

"We had such great success with our touring production of 'Junie B. Jones the Musical,' last year," explained Schultz. "We're so pleased to be able to offer this opportunity yet again. We're looking forward to meeting up with old friends that we made on the road last year, plus meeting some new friends.

"None of this would be possible without the support of 3M," Schultz added. "We appreciate so much the opportunity to partner with a forward-thinking local corporation that is committed to youth and the arts. This will be a tremendous experience not only for the communities we visit, but the actors that are part of the SBLT company.

This is invaluable professional experience for them, too."

Schultz hopes the touring element of SBLT's programming is something that will be able to continue for several years to come.

3Mgives' purpose is to promote stronger and more sustainable communities through donations, investments and through their 3M volunteers. Since its inception, 3Mgives has invested $1.45 billion in cash and in-kind support globally, according to the 3Mgives 2016 annual report.
